Board of Education

Burlington has always been fortunate in her Board of Education. The personnel of this body is at present as follows: Mr. F. L. Williamson, Chairman, M. J. P. Montgomery, Treasurer, Mrs. T. D. Cooper, Mr. R. W. Barnwell, Mr. C. M. Horner, Dr. J. P. Spoon, and Mr. D. R. Fonville. They give unstintingly of their time and thought to the improvement and advancement of our schools.

The enrollment for the present year is as follows:

High School											362
Broad St. Elementary
Maple Avenue School			÷								413
Fisher Street School .				٠					٠		397
Total	,			1.							1701
Colored School
Grand Total											2.126

It was again necessary at the beginning of the present term to rent the building belonging to Mr. Ernest Murray on Ruffin Street, in which at present are housed one room of the first grade and one room of the third grade. This building has seven rooms, and they will probably all be in use next year. The time is, therefore, close at hand when it will be necessary for the city to vote more bonds with which to put the fourth building which will be erected in the first ward. The site was secured at the same time the Fisher Street and Maple Avenue Schools were erected.

According to observers outside of Burlington our schools take high rank, and are among those leading in library facilities, the health program and physical education, modern school cafeterias, the teaching of thrift, the organization and classification of pupils to meet individual needs, visual education, cleanliness and beautification of buildings and grounds, and a thorough-going business-like system of school accounting and financing. All accounts are carefully audited the first of July each year, and a full report is published. The schools have for several years more than lived within their income and have thus reduced the small indebtedness which accumulated during the war period when costs increased faster than income from taxes.

The Circus Day Parade

The circus is in town today And all the children leave their play They run this way; they run that way Because it is a circus day.

They hear a drum go bum, bum, bum Then all the kids say "Come, come, come," The Seniors even run to see The camel, lion and monkey.

They then select for their mascot Jo-har, the camel, from the lot. They choose him for his strength and pride Endurance, poise, patience beside.

Our School

Of all the schools we know, There's none so good as ours. All others rank below When they're compared with ours.

Our game we've played so well With but a single aim, Although we shout and yell "Always to play the game."

Our teachers are the best, And, this is plainly seen, They'll always lead the rest For to the right they lean.

Our school spirit's the stuff, It makes us win success; We falter not, nor bluff, Just work for B. H. S.

Our Classmates are more kind Than any in the State. True friends we here will find, And tasks, to make us great.

In all, there's this to say, Our school's the best of schools. And day by day we're gay Because, our School, it rules.

FINLEY RIKE COBLE

FRANK BENNETT SPOON

August 17, 1907 September 15, 1923

Senior Class History

In SEPTEMBER, 1922, one hundred and twenty young people enlisted in the Burlington General Army of Education. Mr. Donald Van Noppen was commander-in-chief, and they opened their campaign to conquer everything with which they came in contact.

The first campaign was under Generals Annie Webster, Flossie Kersey and R. S. Rainey. Bertha White was made colonel, and Robert Councilman lieutenant-colonel, while the major was Waller Workman.

With these efficient officers the army began to conquer all obstacles.

Two fatalities, beloved fellow soldiers, Finley Coble and Bennett Spoon grieved their comrades much.

During the first year the forces gained many honors. In one campaign they defeated a very strong regiment, the Juniors, in a fight for Basketball. The army this year furnished a major official of the Varsity Tennis Troop, and an unheard of number of star runners, jumpers, discers, etc., at the track meet which is an annual event even in times of war.

The entire army, after nine months of strenuous drill, was released on a three month's furlough for rest and recreation.

After these three months of fun and merry-making, they returned to camp September 12, 1923. Again the army was organized. Mr. William D. Halfacre was elected commander-in-chief. Robert Councilman was made colonel, Kendall Shoffner lieutenant-colonel, and Hazel Thompson major. This year the troops did splendid work. They gained honors in every campaign, and were on the field in every battle.

Another campaign was opened in the fall of 1924, great struggles lay ahead of these brave soldiers. They made Hal Waddell colonel, Nat Fowler heutenant-colonel, Hazel Thompson major, and Waller Workman sergeant. The entire army fought faithfully to win in every contest of arms and brain. Some of the most stirring contests were fought on football and basketball fields. The soldiers fought with great courage and bravery and were especially successful in football encounters.

But that period was not spent entirely in fighting. The entire Junior Regiment was called to discuss many problems. One was a banquet which they were to give to the Senior Division. Every officer, and every private did his duty in this, whether it were kitchen police duty, lecture work, or merely standing at attention ready to run errands for higher officers. It is needless to say all attended this banquet in full dress uniform.

The troops, after a long, and tiresome siege, departed from Camp High School for their summer furlough with light and happy hearts, realizing that they would next year be promoted to the Senior Brigade.

The fall of 1925 found the troops ready to begin their last struggle for knowledge of scientific and literary tactics, and promotion in the High School Army. They choose Vernon Jones for the colonel, Almond Durham lieutenant-colonel, Hazel Thompson major, and Edith Holt

Sergeant. Since then they have had many hard battles and sieges. A few privates, also lieutenant-colonel Almond Durham, and major Hazel Thompson have dropped from the ranks. These officers having dropped out, it was necessary to choose new ones. Herman Hill King was chosen lieutenant-colonel, and Thomas Bradshaw major. The army still presses forward hoping soon to capture Diploma. The Senior Division has been well represented in athletic maneuvers, social encounters, and all educational conflicts.

Especially in athletics have they been noted for distinguished service and winning victories. A number of medals in Track have been won, and several men have broken state records. The class has had men on the firing line of the football field through their entire High School training.

While not in battle or in drill these soldiers have found time for some recreations other than athletics. For the pleasure and enjoyment of other fellow soldiers, they have, during their last year, attempted some Amateur Dramatics and presented very creditable performances, the greatest of which was "Daddy Long Legs."

They have also put out this Annual, which is itself a living memorial to their literary achievements.

Now as the seizing of the Diploma draws nearer and nearer, the entire battalion is about to be retired from the active Army of dear old B. H. S., and bid farewell to the commander-in-chief, all the Generals, and subordinate officers.

The army is grateful to them for their kindness, and generosity, and for the way in which they have led this great educational campaign which has resulted in complete victory.

MARGARET BROWN, '26,

Senior Class Poem

We've come to the end of our School career And days we hold so dear; We've come to end a four year's course To which we've put much force.

We've labored hard through thick and thin To strive, to gain, to win; And now that tasks are finished here, We face the world with cheer.

To those who've guided on our way, To smiles that brightened day, Our heart's devotion we will give And say—"Long may they live."

Here's to our class of Twenty-six The grandest bunch that's mixed. Our hearts we leave with B. H. S. To go to our recess.

We'll ere be true to green and white We'll always boldly fight, "Manum auxilia dare," We bow on humble knee.

There's just one school we call our own, Fond memories have grown; Wherever fate decrees our home, May we her name enthrone.

So to our friends and class mates true We bid a last adieu, And with the shedding of a tear We leave our school so dear.

Class Prophecy

I Almost wish that I had never waked. The thing was as clear as light. Days and nights I had worried and pondered over the terrible problem of making prophecies for fifty-eight seniors. Now it was all solved. As I was walking in the garden thinking of this, I became very tired and sat down to rest. Here, I fell asleep.

A beautiful little lady with a golden wand in her hand, and a crown on her head, danced in and took her place on a throne of roses. After her, little winds from the North, South, East and West came dancing in. These little people were gowned in marvelous robes of silver with long flowing sleeves. As they ran out, there dropped from their sleeves beautiful yellow and green leaves. These were gathered up in little silver baskets by the followers of the Queen and brought to her throne. One by one she picked them up and read.

Last Will and Testament

We, the class of 1926, of the Burlington High School, having come to an end of our long life in a peaceful and undisturbed state of, what we have always been pleased to call, our mind, in accordance with the unwritten laws of this school, do hereby give and bequeath and devise all our worldly goods and possessions, with all appurtenances and hereditaments thereunto belonging, as seemeth wise and fitting in our judgment, without taking advice or counsel from anyone, and without being influenced in the least by past favors or disfavors, past kindness or unkindness

ARTICLE I

To our much cherished and loved faculty, we leave our good grades and good behavior to be bestowed upon that class which shall take our place—if there be such.

ARTICLE II

To the Junior Class, we leave our Senior privileges, which, of course, are many, our Senior dignity, and the pleasure of putting out a year book. This class has by three years unfaithful work not proved that they need the above mentioned.

To the Sophomores, we bequeath our marvelous ability to grasp things quickly and easily, especially in the lunch room.

To the Freshmen, we leave all our spelling pads in order that they, by perusing the splendid grades found in them, may become inspired to attain such excellence.

ARTICLE III

Mary Horne, Annie Rice Tate and Bernice Oakley leave their innocent and solemn looks to Rachael Johnston, Mary Lee Stadler and Pauline Brown, respectively.

Margaret Brown and Zettie Hall regretfully leave their foolish pranks, especially on French class, to Ruth Younger and Louise Scott.

Kent Thompson and Everett Allred bequeath their extra weight to Linwood Hall and Dwight Lankford to hold said legatees down on windy days.

Ed Holt, at a slight sacrifice, leaves his overwhelming size to Fulton Fox in order that the said legatee may be large enough to wear long trousers in the graduation exercises of 1927.

"Chilly" Holt, Ruby Goins and Mildred Trollinger leave their basketball prowess to Clara Sharpe, Nesbit Hanford and Lula Sharpe.

Ramon Bell bequeaths his good standing with Mr. Leonard to Howard Moore. The said legatee will find this of much value if he studies physics.

Eugene Glosson, Waller Workman and Thomas Knott leave their excessive knowledge of English to Pryor Fonville, Monroe Bennett and Tulis Moran.

Swannie Black and Alice Homewood bequeath their beauty accessories, including compacts to Erma Love and Annie Brown.

Willie Qualls leaves his noted and speedy way of turning corners to George Kernodle.

Tula Paul and Carleen Crutchfield will their pep and liveliness to anyone who wishes it. All the Juniors need it in class, but can easily spare it at other times.

Vance Simpson leaves his extraordinary friendly disposition and his standing with the girls to Edward Gregg.

Roy Clark very sorrowfully leaves his interest in formal argument to Paul Cobb.

Hilda Amick and Clara Clapp bequeath their smiles and chumminess to Louise Scott and Cleo Stewart.

Alyse Smith bequeaths to Mary Price her place as piano soloist in the State Musical Contest at Greensboro, on condition that she practice ten hours a day.

Gordon Noah and Floyd Whitfield regretfully leave their places as assistant janitors to anyone who is capable of holding such position.

Edith Holt bequeaths one of her smiles to Hazel Pickett to be used as long as it will last Thomas Bradshaw bequeaths his position as cheer leader to Frank Mitchell.

Nina Mebane, Elizabeth Hinshaw and Ruth Greeson, after careful consideration, have decided to leave their French books to any of the Juniors who do not want them.

Benjamin De Loatche, Lacey West and Hal Waddell leave their places in the volley-ball court to Morris Burke, Edward Guthrie and Jule Holt. It is hoped that the said legatees may someday attain such heights of perfection as the deceased ones.

Louise Isley and Annie Ivey will their interest in French to Mary Waddell and Lucille Moore.

James Hall, Nat Fowler and Reid Thompson leave their basketball ability to Scott White, Walter Sharpe and Harrison Goodman.

Guy Ephland, Theodore Welch and Max Fogleman bequeath their excellent standing among the girls to Ernest Gross, William Bowman and William Shoffner.

Elma Fox leaves her extremely loud voice to Kathleen Coley. The said legatee will find this very useful when answering questions on history class.

W. H. May wills his excellent way of losing books to Neblette Crowson. Calling at the office for lost books will be a source of much pleasure to the legatee.

Howard Wright, after much consideration and deliberation has decided that he needs all his knowledge and possessions and will make no formal will at present.

Ruth Cole leaves her place in the French Club to Olivia Stadler.

Ashby Robertson bequeaths his brains to the science class upon the condition that the class waits until his demise before making any disposition of them.

Herman Hill King wills his power to dream and create newfangled ideas to William Burke. Tessie Paul leaves her happy memories of B. H. S. to Verdie Hay. If the said legatee forgets the said memories, she will not be in a terrible predicament.

Richard Potter and Randolph Isley leave their notorious way of making and losing friends to Eldred Foster and Bruce Andrews.

Vernon Jones wills his position as Business Manager of the annual to Kern Lee Thompson. Ruth Morton leaves her everlasting smiles to Drusilla Shoffner.

Kermit Neese bequeaths his delight in keeping and in telling secrets to Charlie Clapp.

Dorothy Brittle leaves her position in the orchestra as violinist to Rockie Lee Taylor with the request that she keep her violin in excellent tune with the snare drum.

Durward Stokes wills his position as Editor-in-Chief of the Annual to Arnold Qualls.

Beatty Rector wills his favorite delight (teasing the girls) to Almon Oldham.

In testimony whereof, we hereby appoint as executor of this, our last will and testament, Mr-W. D. Halfacre, with the understanding that anyone failing to abide by any of the provisions of this document will be severely punished by having to wash the boards.

We do hereby subscribe our names and affix our seal, this the third day of June, the Year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six.

Junior Class History

The class of '27 has taken one step farther into the mystic realms of Education.

Our fold was herded together in the fall of '23. As our shepherd, Kern Lee Thompson was very wisely chosen. Without the guiding influence and untiring efforts of Miss Webster, Miss Morrow, and Mr. Rainey, who were our first teachers in high school, our efforts would have been fruitless.

In our second year we were heralded as Sophomores. The fresh and green feeling that was so noticeable during our first year, was gradually becoming a thing of the past. As our leader, Arnold Qualls proved most competent in every respect, and was indeed a credit to the class. That year we had as our teachers Misses Scarborough, Carroll, and Mr. Rhodes, whose never failing efforts helped us.

We began to realize too, that merely being in high school was not honor enough for our class—and wished to impress on others our very real importance. (We had long realized this, of course!) and so the class of 127 became known as a group of people, interested in the same things and willing to work to put things across. There were several class picnics, parties, etc.

The third year we returned more experienced than ever. The spirit of cooperation had been developed until each realized that he had a very important part to take in the events of the year. We have as our worthy Leader, Dwight Lankford, and as our teachers, Miss Kernodle and Mr. Rhodes, who have proved themselves true members of '27.

The outstanding event in every Junior Class history is the Junior-Senior Banquet. The Juniors of '27 initiated a precedent with regard to this standing celebration. Realizing that the Banquet would be more truly a class affair if the class as a whole helped prepare for it, the Juniors staged on the night of February 12, 1926, a Valentine Party. A play, carnival attractions, booths, refreshments and general fun characterized the party.

Our very happy stay here has enriched our lives. Our activities have been rather mild, we have had the predominating idea of "Not for one's self, but for all", always written deep in our minds. We realized that we must make an envisible record for '27. We have given to the major sports, Lula Sharpe, Clara Sharpe, Lucille Cole, Olivia Stadler, Cleo Stewart, Kathleen Coley, Josephine Hill, Scott White, Edward Guthrie, Casper Loy, Fred Hoffman, Kern Lee Thompson and Dwight Lankford, who not only have made a name for themselves, but have carved in the Athletic Hall of fame a name for our class.

The Musical Clubs also draw heavily from the Junior Class, as is proved by a glance at the personnel of the orchestra where the names of Rockie Lee Taylor, William T. Burke, President, Linwood Hall, Charles Amick, Jr., Pryor Fonville and Dwight Lankford are prominent. As for dramatics, numbers of the Junior members have long since grown accustomed to the smell of grease paint, and the glare of the foot lights.

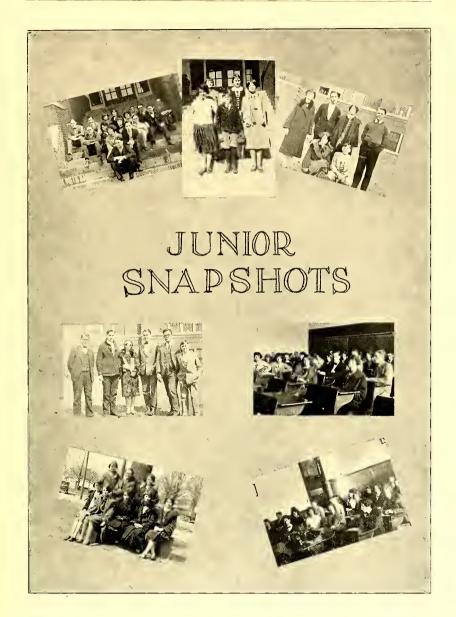

Since we first organized, we have had only one to succumb to the charms of the opposite sex, at least so seriously as to venture into the sea of matrimony.

We are now venturing forth to a broader field, which is the turning point in our educational lives,—the Senior Class. To a Senior there is a touch of regret in the knowledge that he must seen leave his Alma Mater—but to the Juniors there is only pure joy in the knowledge that next year, they will be Seniors.

ELEANOR M. FIX, '27.

Junior Jokes

KATHLEEN COLEY: "How do you like that new course, Clara?"
CLARA SHARPE: Oh, it's a mighty fine course. Why, before I started I knew nothing about it and now I know twice as much.'

George Keck: "There's a town in Massachusetts named for you."
Dace Bryan (proudly): "Yes, what is its name?"
George: "Marblehead."

Miss Fulton (at Glee Club practice): "What are pauses?" Ernest Gross: "I know. They grow on cats."

DWIGHT LANKFORD: "Look. Our captain is going to kick the goal?" MARY LEE STADLER: "What did the goal do?"

"This is a dirty trick," said the frog as he stood on his head in a mud puddle.

MADELINE CATES (to oculist): "I've broken my glasses. Do I have to be examined all over again?"

Oculist: "No, just your eyes."

Scott White: "So, you're so smart, tell me how the leaves of a book stay together?" Monroe Bennett: "Oh, they're bound to do that."

LITTLE BOY: "Grandpa, make a noise like a frog." GRANDPA: "Why, son?"

LITTLE BOY: "Because daddy said we'd get $100,000 when you croaked."

Miss Kernodle (to class): "Fighting, you know, never gets a person anywhere."

WILLIAM BURKE: "Oh, yes, Miss Kernodle, it does sometimes, it gets a person in my pop's undertaking house.'

JOSEPHINE HILL: "Isn't this a horrible photo of me?"
CLARA SHARPE: "Yes, but a very good likeness."

At a high school examination Mr. Rhodes asked, "Does this question embarass you?"
"Not at all, sir," replied Fred Hoffman, "not at all. It is quite clear. It is the answer that bothers me.

Monroe Bennett (in lunch room): "Waiter, there is sand in this bread." PAULINE Brown (acting as waitress): "Yes sir. That's to keep the butter from sliding off.

Officer (to Mr. Halfacre in parked auto): "Don't you see that sign, 'Fine for parking?" MR. HALFACRE: "Yes, officer, I see and heartily agree with it."

Mr. McBane: "What is your opinion of Lincoln?"

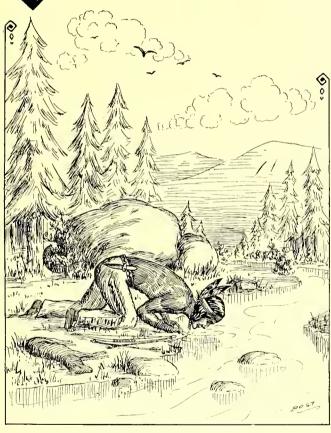

LINWOOD HALL: "It's a good car but I like a Packard better."

GERTRUDE THOMPSON: "Mr Leonard was telling about Grand Canyon today. He said it took millions of years for that great abyss to be carved out."
"Well, well," said Mary Price, "I never knew it was a government job."

Sophomore Class History

FOR SEVEN years the present Sophomore class was busy gathering material and laying the foundation for its Building of Knowledge. As the materials and foundation determine the durability of a structure, they endeavored to secure the best materials in all points and to construct the firmest foundation possible. On September 10, 1024, they started in the Freshman year. They selected the following as officers or overseers, because they seemed most capable; Walter Sharpe, president; Wilham Bowman, vice-president; Wilham Shoffner, secretary; Marthat Lou Stokes, secretary; Margaret Riddle and Nell Benson as historians. Misses Webster and Holton and Mr. McBane were Counselors and Architects. The carpenters thought "B2 and B Y's" to be a fitting and lasting motto. They selected pink and white as their colors, and a pink rose as the flower.

That year's work consisted mostly of framework into which went Algebra, English, Science, Latin, Civics, Spelling, Music and Sewing. Most every member succeeded with his part, thanks to the Counselors; and if any became tired and discouraged, the musical members cheered them, or the athletes lent a strong arm as aid. The builders worked hard all year without much diversion, so, when the hot summer sun began beating down upon them, they decided to have a vacation.

On September 9, 1925, after three month's rest, they started back to work with vigor and vim. This year Misses Carroll, Scarborough and Shepherd were counselors. The class was organized anew with the name of Sophomore. Jule Holt was elected president; Sara Murray, vice-president; George Kenney, secretary; Brinson Rouse, treasurer; Walter Sharpe, first critic; Nell Benson, historian.

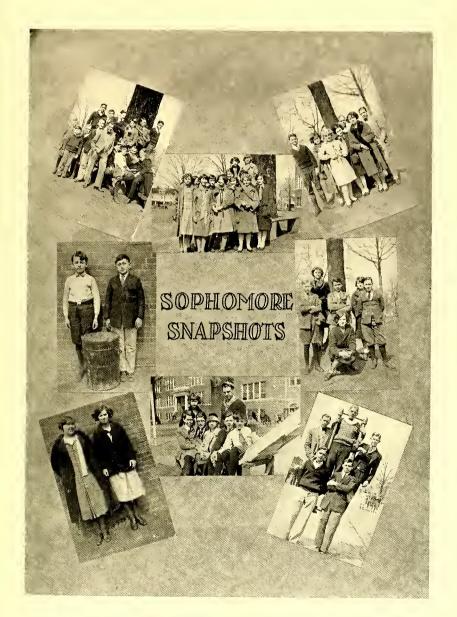

Those who had failed in their former work found, much to their regret, that they would have to repeat at least a part of the grade. Those who had done their part well started on building plans for that year. They decided to put the outside covering, such as the roof, and outside wall, and also to start on the interior work. Some of the same materials were used in the Sophomore year as were used in the Freshman year. These included Algebra, English, Spelling, Science, Latin, History, Music and Home Economics. They have nearly finished this phase of their work.

Very soon the workers will take a rest and start into their Junior Year, in which they will start finishing their structure. In the Senior class they will probably finish their structure. This useful Building of Knowledge, will deterioate and crumble, like any other building, if not kept repaired, but College and a life career will serve as repairs in this case.

Sophomore Jokes

Miss Barbee: "Martha, what is a grapefruit?"
MARTA Coble: "It's a lemon that's been given a chance and has taken advantage."

VICTOR SHOFFNER (examining new building): "What are those stairs for?" LUTHER ATWATER: "That's the fire escape." VICTOR: "Yes, but where do the people get out?"

Scott White: "What's an usher?"

JULE HOLT: "The guy who takes the leading part in the theaters."

BILL BOWMAN: "Leon, why is it I manage to get more sleep than you?" Leon Jones: "You have more classes than I."

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star, Just above the trolley car. If the car should jump the track, Would I get my nickel back?'

What would we do if-Mabel Thornburg should speak without permission? Walter Sharpe should hand in his Latin paper? lack May should sit still two minutes in succession? Keith Moore should stop chewing licorice?

Miss Kernodle: "Keith, is there anything that you can do better than anyone else?"
Keith Moore: "Yes'm, I can read my own writing."

EDNA MONTGOMERY: "Gee, I'm glad you're in my class."

Margaret Walker: "Why?"

Edna: "Now I won't be the biggest dumbell."

The following letter was written by Bob Ross to a company which manufactures corn syrup: "Dear Sirs: Tho' I have taken six cans of your corn syrup, my feet are no better than when I started.'

BILL LASLEY: "Have you heard the Dago song?"
HENRY MEACHEM: "How do the words go?" BILL: "Dago wild, simply wild over me.

Hickey Mitchell: "Bennie, how do you like my new electric hat?" Bennie Black: "How do you get electric?"

HICKEY: "I charge it."

Mr. Dabbs: (on math class): "Jack, your adding is terrible. Now if you had three dollars, and your father gave you thirteen dollars, what would you have? Jack May (sleepily): "A spasm."

ELIZABETH KIRKMAN (at basketball game): "Why didn't they make that fellow in white knickers get off the court?"

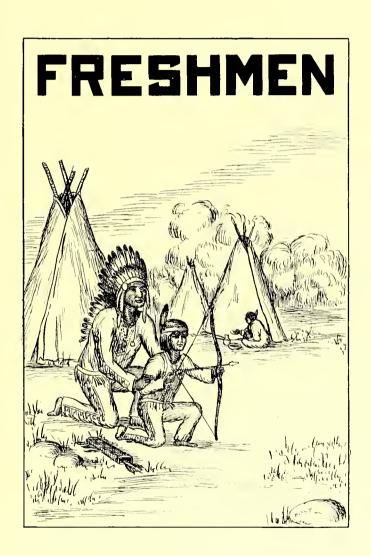

BLANCE IRELAND: "That's the referee. He watches all the plays."

ELIZABETH: "Well, why didn't he let them play instead of taking the ball from them so often?

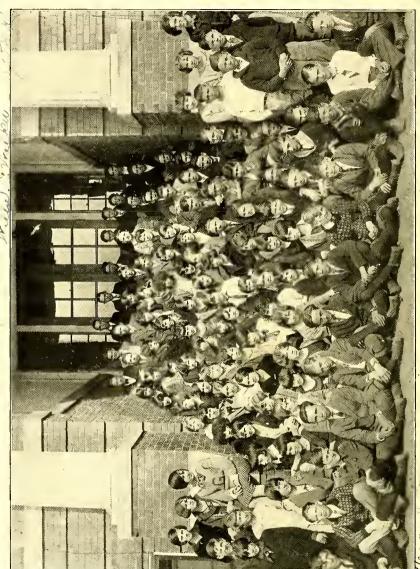

DOROTHY THOMPSON: "Isn't that hoy friend of yours from Penn State?" RUTH MACOMSON: "No, state pen."

Freshman Class History

ON SEPTEMBER 10, 1925, the class of "29", one hundred twenty one strong, set sail on the sea of knowledge, with Miss Webster, Miss Holton and Mr. McBane as their captains.

Before starting on the voyage, the class elected as their leaders: Carlos Pennington, president; John Whitley, vice-president; Helen Fowler, secretary and treasurer.

The ship slowly moved out of the harbor with its banner of Silver and Rose fluttering in the ocean breeze. Its motto, "We're not on the top, but climbing," was the pass word of the crew.

The first six weeks of the storm were braved, though at times some of the crew seemed in peril.

Many storms arose on the wild ocean. Latin, with all its blackness and terrible looks, frightened many of the crew, but the captains gave advice and aid and told them to study harder. Arithmetic appeared as a puzzle, and could not be worked by many, but soon it was overcome by most of the crew.

Many of the crew were washed overboard by the Latin and Arithmetic storms, and were lost at sea. However, others have been picked up at different points to maintain the yearly roll. Athletics, and different school activities have encouraged many.

The members of the crew are standing on the deck of the ship viewing the island of summer vacation which lies in the distance. The storms have passed over. The sun has come out with all its glory, and the ship is nearing the harbor where rest, food and water may be had. After their minds have rested, the crew will set sail for the harbor of Sophomore Class, with their motto "We're not on the top, but climbing."

The Class of '29

As Freshmen we've started in High School, With little experience or "rep". But one thing can be said for us, We're full of ambition and pep.

Next year we'll be Soph'mores, important, We hope, too, that then we'll know more, So that when we are jolly Juniors We'll have knowledge and spirit galore.

Oh, joy! We'll be dignified Seniors, In nineteen and twenty-nine. We hope we'll look like the Seniors With their airs of importance so fine.

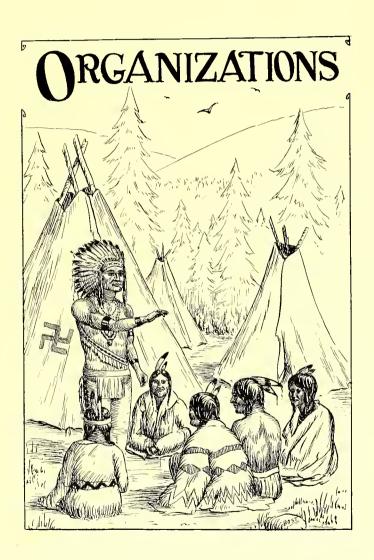

Meanwhile, we will pledge to our High School Three good years of true loyalty, Endeavor, and effort untiring. We pledge her our faith, you see.

And then with our bouquet of sweet peas, With our banner of silver and rose, Although near the top, we'll keep climbing, As far as dear B. H. S. goes.

Football

The Football season started with about thirty-five candidates out for daily practice. The prospects for a winning team looked good, but a few of the most promising candidates dropped out.

During the early part of the season several of the players quit school, which was another great loss to the team. However the faithful ones who remained underwent an intensive training under Coach McBane and made a splendid showing in every game in which they engaged. They met some of the strongest teams of the state, Greensboro, High Point, Reidsville and many others. Although the records for the year do not show all winning scores yet the team feels it no dishonor to have been defeated when they had put forth their best efforts. The experience gained in such encounters will be of material aid to them in putting out a stronger team next year. In a word, they played the game fair and square and won a name in good sportsmanship.

Greensboro.

The Boy's Basketball Season started when they met the strong Gibsonville team on the local court December 8, 1925. The game was hotly contested and had to be extended an extra ten minutes before either team could be acclaimed victor. It finally ended in the local team's favor, 35-34. Although this was the only game the team won during the season, it has learned to take defeat in a sportsman-like way. The team was comparatively new because of the loss of four letter men last year.

The Baseball season opened with High Point on the home grounds. The game resulted in a victory for B. H. S. by the score of 6-3. Eight of the last year's regulars are back and with several prospective candidates, Coach McBane expects to put out a championship team. B. H. S. has a reputation of sending good ball blayers to the big leagues and from present indications it looks as though she is going to send more. The varsity has been equipped with new uniforms and they expect to show their appreciation of them by winning every game on the schedule.

B. H. S. has won the first three games played. High Point being defeated by the score 6-3 Pomona being defeated 22-4. Greensboro, our worst enemy, received the small end of a 10-5 score.

Boys' Track Team-Season 1926

The track squad under the coaching of Mr. J. V. Dabbs is rapidly developing into a championship team. With seven of last year's squad back the prospects of a successful season look good. In past years B. H. S. has been noted for its track teams and possesses seven trophy cups which have been won permanently. She expects to win more.

Last year a squad composed of four Seniors and one Junior won the State Tournament at Wake Forest College. All schools were limited to a squad of five men.

Tennis is becoming more popular yearly among the girls of the student body. This Season's practice began early with approximately seventy girls signing up to play. It was near impossible to picture such a large squad, so an elimination series was played with the six girls pictured above defeating all of their opponents.

This year's schedule will include matches with Winston-Salem, Greensboro, High Point and others. Indications are that the season will be one of success.

Tennis Squad

Holt, Edward Jones, Perry

The Tennis team this year has shown more interest and enthusiasm than any preceding year, due probably to the fact that the Physical Education Department has arranged that about seventy-five pupils play during each week. The interest thus aroused will assure us winning teams in the future.

Although the team has not done any spectacular winning of matches, they have been able to hold their opponents to a low score. In the State Tournament, while they did not get to the finals, they held the winning team to a lower score than any other team.

Four members of the present squad will form the neucleus for a winning team in 1927.

How Did You Die?

Did you tackle the trouble that came your way With a resolute heart and cheerful? Or hide your face from the light of day With a craven soul, and fearful? Oh, a trouble's a ton—or a trouble's an ounce, Or a trouble is what you make it. It isn't the fact you're hurt that counts, But only, how did you take it?

You are beaten to earth. Well, well, what of that? Come up with a smiling face. It's nothing against you to fall down flat—But to lie there—that's disgrace! The harder you're thrown, the higher you'll bounce! Be proud of the blackened eye! It isn't the fact you're licked that counts, But how did you fight, and why?

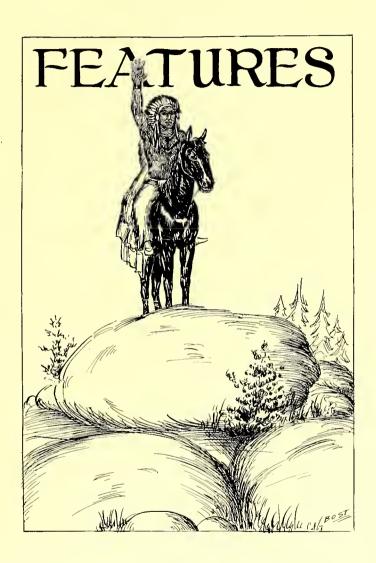

And though you be done to death, what then? If you've battled the best you could, If you've played your part in the world of men, . The Critic will call it good.

Death comes with a crawl—or he comes with a pounce—But, whether he's slow or spry—It isn't the fact you're dead that counts, But only, how did you die?

The Iunior Party

N ORDER for the Juniors to have the Junior-Senior Banquet in the Alamance Hotel, it was necessary to have more funds. Their plan was to have a party and charge twenty-five cents for admission.

The party was held near the time of St. Valentine's Day, so the Juniors gave a play which caused the jaws of the spectators to swell and their sides almost to split. The players displayed great talent in dramatic work

Before and after the play delicious lemonade and candy were sold from a valentine booth.

Pretty girls dressed in harmony with St. Valentine's Day sold the lemonade and candy.

Between the acts, and before and after the play, the high school orchestra furnished some of the best music of the season.

In a gypsy tent, at one side of the auditorium, sat Miss Holton, telling the boys and girls what luck they would have in courtship, and the older men and women how long they would live and how much money they would earn. At the other side of the auditorium in an enclosed booth sat Miss Edith Carroll, telling the people the same thing in a most skillful and impressive mapper.

Everyone went away smiling and happy, and feeling as if he had got his money's worth.

The Junior-Senior Banquet

The greatest social event of the year was the Junior-Senior Banquet, given by the Juniors of Burlington High School to the Seniors. This was given March the twelfth, ninteen hundred and twenty six.

The banquet was held in the banquet room of the Alamance Hotel. As this was near St. Patrick's Day, everything was decorated in green and white, the Senior colors. The waitresses were green and white St. Patrick's Day dresses. White roses, the Senior flower, were used in Profusion

This was one time when every boy had a girl. The couples marched in double file and found their places marked by place cards.

Monroe Bennett proved his ability as toastmaster by his humor and fluent elocution. Everyone who gave toasts spoke very distinctly and proved that the Junior class has some excellent material and many promising platform speakers.

Miss Katherine White, as a fairy dancer, entertained in her charming and graceful way. Her dance was so enjoyed that she was asked to repeat her part on the program.

The high school orchestra furnished music, and the waitresses sang several beautiful songs and gave several old folk dances. It was an evening of real pleasure.

The Senior Hi-Y Social

One of the greatest organizations of the High School is the Hi-Y Club. This Club is composed solely of boys. It is customary each year to have a social or picnic.

The Club decided to entertain the Junior Hi-Y, composed only of boys from the freshman class, in order to give them a hearty welcome into the Senior Hi-Y for the ensuing year. Since, however, it would be impossible to have a successful social without some girls, each boy of the Club was to take some girl to the social, and each member of the Junior Hi-Y was given the same privilege with his best girl friend was present at the school auditorium.

On March the nineteenth at eight o'clock practically every member of the two Hi-Y Clubs

The president, Edward Guthrie, presided over the assembly. Guy Ephland whole heartedly welcomed the Junior Hi-Y and the girls to the social. Mr. Dabbs told of the significance of the Hi-Y pin. Kermit Neese told of the purpose and objectives of the Hi-Y. The high school orchestra gave several enjoyable selections at different times through the program.

Immediately after the program a social hour was sponsored by Miss Shepard, Mr. Leonard, and Thomas Bradshaw.

During the social hour each person present was given a favor, which was a rubber comeback ball.

Following the social hour ice cream and cake were served.

Everyone enjoyed the evening of fun and left the "dear old school" with a light heart.

The Editors' Appreciation

Now that you, dear reader, have perused the previous pages, we, the Editors, beg the privilege of a parting word. We wish to express to you our feeling at the completion of this book. We expressed in the Foreword our purposes in presenting to you the book, and we have worked hard in order to accomplish these. We sincerely hope that the contents of this book will meet with your approval. To Mr. Halfacre and Mr. Haworth, for their encouragement, advice and indispensable aid; to the members of the faculty for their generous help and suggestions; to the members of the Staff for their untiring and faithful labor; to the student body for their never failing enthusiasm and ready service; to the generous and patronizing business men and women of Burlington for their financial aid and encouragement; and to every one who has in any way helped to make our publication possible, we extend this expression of our deepest appreciation.

To our successors, we extend our best wishes and sincere hopes for success. May each volume of the "DOE-WAH-JACK" stand forth as a better one than any that have gone before. Again we thank you, one and all, for making this volume possible.

"Yes, Darling."
"Can they fly?" Mrs. Thompson: K. L. THOMPSON:

Mrs. Thompson: K. L. Thompson: "Yes, dear.

"Then, when is the nurse going to fly, Pa called her an angel last night."

Mrs. Thompson: "Tomorrow, darling."

COLLEGE PROF.: "Well, I suppose you have been through algebra?"
W. H. MAY: "Yes, sır, but I went through at night and couldn't see the darn place."

"Would you give me 50c. for a fund to beautify the town?"

"Well, how are you going to beautify it?" NATIVE:

TRAMP: "By moving on to the next village."

MISS HOLTON: "How's married life?" "Oh, I live like a bird." Mr. Leonard: "Oh, I live I. Miss Holton: "How's that? MR. LEONARD: "I have to fly for my life."

Richard potter is like a hen, because he seldom finds anything where he laid it yesterday.

A woman has two natures: The one she really is and the one she tells other people about.

Dwight Lankford thinks neology is studied on the front row of a burlesque show.

Being one of a chain of thirty-six live and up-to-date department stores we feel like we have helped the people of this and the surrounding communities in many ways. We have always tried to and think that we have offered you many wonderful values during the past six years. We are not satisfied with the past but are tugging and working every day to make our future far superior. Belks' buying power is becoming greater and greater each year, we now have two offices in New York City and one in Paris, France, and in these offices we have men and women who are the very best to be found. These buyers are searching day by day for bigger and better values for each and every store throughout the Belk chain. Remember that we comb the world for good dependable merchandise and blaze the way in value giving.

It is sometimes hard to judge why people buy their insurance so indifferently. Perhaps they are blind. Perhaps they just don't care. But it has always been our rule to try to protect our customers from their own blindness or carelessness.

We represent the Hartford Fire Insurance company, whose business it is to sell protection. We have been appointed Hartford Agent here to see that the people in and around Burlington are properly protected. The Hartford Fire Insurance Company pays losses promptly and has a hundred year old reputation for fair dealing.
